Legislative Assembly of British Columbia
Victoria, British Columbia

Dear Hiring Manager,

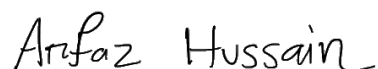

I am writing to express my interest in the Publishing Systems Co-op position at Legislative Assembly of British Columbia. As a current undergraduate student in field of computer and software engineering, I have had the opportunity to acquire a diverse set of technical skills, which I believe will be instrumental in this role.

I have always been fascinated by how technology can solve complex problems, and I am always improving my skills in this area through my personal projects. Throughout my coursework, I have had the opportunity to collaborate with multiple teams on diverse projects. Currently, I am actively involved in building a software program for Vex Robotics, where I have been able to apply my skills in software application development. In one of my most recent projects, I developed T-Rex, a cross-platform Java runtime application that emulates the classic gameplay experience on multiple platforms. This project allowed me to develop my programming skills and foster my passion for creating user-friendly applications.

I am particularly excited about this opportunity as it aligns with my strong interest in developing user-friendly and engaging applications. I have been focusing on building my first iOS application in Swift, which has helped me improve my programming skills and gain an in-depth understanding of the development process. The role requires active participation in technology planning, requirements gathering, and systems design, areas where I have gained valuable experience through both my coursework and personal projects. In addition, I have utilized Git extensively in my personal programming projects, providing me with valuable experience in code version control systems.

Given my current work-term setting, I would be able to take a 4 or 8-month co-op for up to two consecutive terms. Thank you for considering my application, and I would be grateful for the opportunity to discuss how I can contribute to your company.

Most Sincerely,

Arfaz Hossain (He/Him/His)
